

VISUALIZATION

Possible Visualizations

- Real or imagined places: Beach, Mountains, Forest, etc.
- Favorite relaxing activities
- A safe or relaxing room or place
- Peaceful and happy memories with family and friends.
- Images of relaxation like sun warming the body, or melting like wax
- Tension or pain having a shape, texture, or color that changes.

Visualization Example:

Begin by taking deep breaths, exhaling slowly. In your mind's eye see a pathway or stairway that will take you step by step to a peaceful, relaxing, safe place in your mind. It can be a real place or a place in your imagination. See the pathway open up to this place, which represents your calm center. Notice what it is about this place that is soothing and relaxing. Notice what you see: the colors, shapes, movement. Feel what it is like to be in this place. Notice the sounds, smells, what you sense and feel. Absorb the peace and tranquility into your mind and body. You may feel the warmth of the sun on your face and body relaxing your muscles. Notice how good it feels to relax and how easy it is to return to this place whenever you want.

Visualization uses the influence of the imagination to calm the mind and relax the body. Visualization is part of everyday life: recalling memories; daydreaming; thinking about people, places, things; imagining a conversation, etc.

Visualization can be an effective way to clear your mind of the clutter of the day, or calm any worries or nervousness that keep you from relaxing. Visualizing a peaceful scene or place can relax and rejuvenate the mind and body. Visualizing yourself succeeding at an important goal helps to harness the power of your mind give you confidence to accomplish it.

Benefits

Visualization is effective for many stress-related and physical illnesses such as headaches, muscle spasms, anxiety, PTSD, and chronic pain. It can be an effective antidote to insomnia by allowing the mind and body to relax sufficiently to enter a deeper, restorative state of sleep. Visualization can calm and open the mind for improved concentration, memory, and brain power. It can be used to create a safe and peaceful place in the mind for taking a break from stressful or fearful situations.

Technique

Use all of your senses in Visualization to make it as real and powerful as possible. Notice the images that naturally arise in your mind of a peaceful and relaxing scene. Mentally focus on all aspects of sight: Vivid colors, shapes, & textures. Imagine the sounds that would be present, as well as objects to touch, taste, and smell. The more clearly and specifically you visualize, the more relaxing and calming it will be.

More Information:

Health Journeys: www.healthjourneys.com/what_is_guided_imagery.asp

Inner Health Visualization Audio: <http://www.innerhealthstudio.com/visualization-audio.html>

Idaho State
UNIVERSITY

Counseling and Testing Service
Stress Management & Biofeedback Center

Idaho State University